QUESTION: We are still deliberating and have not come to any decisions but we would like to clarify the process should we come to an impasse. Our jury instructions state that the foreperson is to alert the judge if we are unable to come to a consensus. This seems to indicate the use of the question form yet the verdict form has a line titled No Unanimous Decision. In the event of a stalemate, which form should we use? This is the question we attempted to ask yesterday after reading our juror packets and while still deliberating. It was not our intention to indicate that we had reached any decisions at that time.

REPLY:

If you are unable to come to a consensus, notify the court by sending a notation a "Juror Question" form.
